Finances When Caring For Kids and Elderly Relatives

(StatePoint) – Despite actively saving and preparing for retirement, members of the sandwich generation have in large numbers been unable to build robust emergency savings and retirement account balances, primarily due to the strain of financially supporting other family members, according to a new survey from The PNC Financial Services Group.

The sandwich generation - defined as those who are caught between financially supporting children and elderly family members - is acutely aware of its financial shortcomings, but instead of that knowledge spurring action, the stress of the responsibility is overwhelming to the point of creating an unpreparedness for the future. In fact, 32 percent of those surveyed report a retirement account balance of less than $25,000, and are facing additional near-term financial burdens.

"The reality is that the only way to improve your financial situation is to be honest with yourself and commit to making the necessary changes required to prepare for the future," says Rich Ramassini, director of Strategy and Sales Performance for PNC Investments. "We can see that those in the sandwich generation are struggling to save for their own needs. When you add in the demands associated with family now and in the future, it paints a very grim picture for this demographic's future unless they take immediate action."

A Pledge to Tell Story of The Passion of Christ

For the small Bavarian village of Oberammergau, the world-famous Passion Play is much more than a five-hour performance. The once-a-decade play is a way of life for generations of villagers who have called the town their home.

The Passionsspiele grew from a vow made by the villagers in 1633, when the plague was ravaging most of Europe. The people of Oberammergau prayed to be spared. When their prayers were answered, they pledged to act out the Suffering, Death, and Resurrection of Christ every ten years in return.

On October 20, 2018, the villagers formally renewed their vow and began rehearsals soon after for the 2020 Passion Play, marking the 42nd time that the story will unfold in Oberammergau's famed open-air theater.

More than 2,000 villagers are involved in the production, almost half of the town's population. Only those who were born and raised in Oberammergau, or have lived in the village for at least 20 years, are allowed to partake.

This centuries-old tradition offers renewal to a worldwide audience, inspiring faithful visitors to awaken the story of the Passion, Death, and Resurrection of Christ in the hearts and lives of others.

Bishop Cisneros and Father Frank Schwarz will be leading the Diocese of Brooklyn on a once-in-a-lifetime pilgrimage of renewal, which includes a two-night stay in the beautiful Bavarian Alps and tickets to the third of 103 Passion Play performances in 2020.

This unique opportunity comes around once every ten years. With limited space available, enrollments are being accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis. We hope you will join the Diocese of Brooklyn to witness yourself the greatest story ever told.
