YANKEE-GIANT GAMES FURNISH BIGGEST SURPRISES RECORDED IN WORLD'S SERIES HISTORY

Can you picture the champion home run hitter of the world's first man up with no outs and laying down a bunt?

The Giants couldn't either, and Ruth pulled the unexpected, catching the Giants flat footed, standing in their tracks dumb founded while he walked into first sack.

The 1921 world's series has furnished more surprises to date than any series yet played, but Phoenix fans get the 'big kick' of the baseball year watching the Republican wonder board every play just as it is enacted on the Polo Grounds.

Quinn Anderson was a shining star in the baseball firmament of the milestone chased him to the clubhouse and now Quinn casts his presidential ballot in Phoenix. He knows baseball and has seen several world's series, but yesterday—well just let Quinn tell it: "I've seen baseball games on the sand lots and world's series contests in the big parks, but today was the first time I ever sat in a restaurant and watched a world's series game."

Not many folks are privileged to watch the world's series from their dinner table.

From every side come words of praise for the Wonder Board and each day the crowd of fans in front of the Republican board takes up more space. The old faithful are on the job and the penning bell sounds and they are still there when the final out rings.

The series now stands 2-2 with the Yankees on top. Two more wins will give the world's championship to the Yankees and three will give the Giants the batting. No chance of the series ending before tomorrow and it may run till Friday. Unless rain interferes the series will end Friday if it goes the full nine games. But take no chances on going the limit and get down town early today for your choice seats. You can't afford to let it be known you missed the world's series as played on the Wonder Board and when you write back and you can tell 'em they played the Yankee-Giant series in Phoenix this year.

The game starts at 12 noon Phoenix time today and the Wonder Board will be passing out the thrills when the game starts.

That the Phoenix fans who have watched the great player board for nearly a week and who accompanied the stars on the Polo grounds in New York city play by play as the contests have surged to a finish, may have an idea of the complexity of the big board of The Republican and know the men who are making that board a success, the four youngsters who play the game for the crowds every day in this city were introduced between the seventh and eighth innings of the game yesterday. All the plays which the fan sees on the board must be interpreted behind the board by these four men before they can be shown to the crowd. As the news comes over, the wire it must be examined rapidly and thoroughly, the condition of the board with regard to players, strikes, balls, fouls and other possible plays ascertained, and the new play, whatever it is, executed rapidly and correctly. Not for a moment can the attention of the workers be taken from their task, and their success may be gauged from the fact that during the five games already played not a single misplay has been registered by the player board.

The announcements yesterday were made by "Curly" Blanchard, dean of all the announcers of the Southwest, who introduced the operators of the board in the same style which would have distinguished him at a banquet of the Elks lodge. The first man to be introduced to the crowd and to be cheered by it was Ed Harrington, sports editor of The Republican, who has made the sporting page of The Republican the best thing of its kind in the state. Then came Ward Adams, assistant sport editor and also assistant telegraph editor and member of the local news staff. Harrington is in charge of the board and operates the ball and directs the playing field, while Adams operates the Yankee box score and is in charge of the foul and balls registered by the board.

The third member of the combination is Oliver King, circulation manager of the Republican, who is in charge of the Giants box score and the side of the board opposite Adams. These three play the New York games for the Phoenix fans on the player board; keep the box score in order; make the announcements, and present the game, day after day, to the crowds in front of The Republican.

Then came perhaps the most important member of the organization—C. P. Deem, the speed king of the Associated Press wire system in the Southwest, to whose quickness, accuracy and knowledge of the great American game much of the success of the player board is due. Deem gets the plays over the telegraph wire as they occur 2100 miles away in New York; Harrington okeh's the play and directs the operations of his assistants as well as the motions of the board, which is a big job in itself; and do whatever else is necessary to present the play to the fans.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? Well, it's usually about two hours of hard and grueling work, in which every mental long and headily before gaining the decision. Turner will be in his fighting togs and ready to take on his training partners at 4 o'clock sharp, was announced.

Ben Daubert, manager of the negro champion, announced that Anderson would train publicly each afternoon at 5 o'clock, calling a halt Tuesday afternoon. Only light work will be engaged in Thursday he said. The Turner-Anderson bout is attracting wide interest for the calibre of the two men indicates that a real battle will result. The remainder of the program is also above standard. Ira O'Neill and Kid Beaver of Yuma have been matched for a 6-round go as the semi-final event of the evening. These two boys have been going great guns of late and their meeting here Friday night will be watched by fans throughout the state, for they are recognized as among the best 150 pounders in Arizona.

The opening event of the program will be a four round affair between Young Ebus and Wildcat Johns. These boys will slug it out at 115 pounds. They are both sluggers from the old school and a red hot battle should be on the tap. It will be the Wildcat's first appearance since he broke his hand about six weeks ago.

The second event will be another four rounder with Dick Campbell, 138 pounds, pitted against Kid Rivers, 128 pounds. Both boys are popular here and have been giving good accounts of themselves in recent starts.

"DIDN'T I TELL YOU SO?"

Anderson is working daily at the club arena at Sixteenth and Jefferson streets. "I haven't got anything that I don't want the public to see and if Turner thinks that he can beat me by standing outside and watching me train, he's welcome to watch me from all four corners of the ring," Champion Anderson remarked.

Turner, on the other hand, is keeping pretty well under cover. He consented to give a public workout at the club arena, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets, this afternoon, although the club management argued long and heatedly before gaining the decision. Turner will be in his fighting togs and ready to take on his training partners at 4 o'clock sharp, was announced.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The White Sox retained their title as Chicago champions today by defeating the Cubs 9 to 5. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the American leaguers, their opponents failing to win a game. The Sox forced Cheever's retirement in the fifth inning. New York's attempt to stop the attack saw Sheely's home run send two men ahead of him, practically clinching the game.

Letty Russell pitched steadily for the Sox but in the sixth was replaced by Kerr with the bases filled and none out. Kerr pitched effectively, and although three cubs scored in that frame, they never got dangerous thereafter.

The attendance was $7,172; gross receipts $7,238; players' pool $3,691.38; club's share, $2,460.92; commissioner's share, $1,085.70. The total attendance for the five games was 76,738 and the gross receipts $71,353.18. Of this amount, in round figures, the commissioner's share was $10,710. The amount to be divided equally between the two clubs was $24,254. The players' pool amounted to $38,289. Of this amount the winning White Sox players will divide 60 per cent or $21,829. The Cubs will receive 40 per cent and divide $14,553.

TIGERS TO PLAY PERRY STARS AT RIVERSIDE PARK ON NEXT SUNDAY

When Huggins and McGraw settle their little argument in New York Phoenix baseball fans will be treated to one more big game with the Champion Tigers pitted against an all-star aggregation of ball tossers picked from valley teams.

All star teams generally flatter on lack of practice, but the team that will face the Tigers in the city series will have the benefit of two weeks' practice before going on the field. Several managers have tried to stop the bengal herd from the Crandall zoo, but Harry is still on top with one of the best baseball teams that ever sailed under Phoenix colors.

E. L. Perry who managed the Phoenix Greys through a successful campaign last year has been selected to organize the All Stars and Mr. Perry has been on the job several days lining up his players and arranging details of the new club.

The big game will be played at Riverside park next Sunday as part of a carnival of sports and fun staged by the Elks drill team. Harry Crandall has kindly agreed to the game and Mr. Perry took the reins for the All Stars after some talking on the part of the committee. Perry knows baseball and he knows the players and when he starts out to gather a team he generally succeeds. With the known ability of the Tigers and Perry's past successes still fresh in the memory of Phoenix fans there is no argument that the coming game will not be a humdinger.

Plans for the game were completed several days ago, but were withheld pending the outcome of Crandall's negotiations with the Los Angeles club. When the Angels cancelled their barnstorming trip Perry put his players to work and Crandall started figuring for the game.

Mr. Perry stated last night that he could not give out the lineup of his team for a few days as he was waiting for two players to make the team. However, he stated that the best available talent in the valley will wear All Star unies when the game starts.

The weather has just reached the point where the fans can hold down bleacher seats and enjoy the game without feeling uncomfortable from the hot sun. Winter league baseball should prove profitable in Phoenix and if Sunday's game is successful and the fans show they want winter baseball Perry's All Stars, the Tigers and another good club may play through the rest of the year.

Both Perry and Crandall will have some cheering news for the fans within a few days. Watch for further announcements and keep your engagements clear for next Sunday afternoon.
