

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

May 31, 2025

I send my warmest greetings and heartfelt appreciation to all the members, staff, friends, and supporters of the National Council of Catholic Women. On behalf of my entire Administration, thank you for your steadfast commitment to uplifting women in the Church and all across our Nation.

For more than 100 years, your organization has brought together women of faith to serve your neighbors in need, grow closer to God, and promote the teachings of the Catholic Church. Your work is a shining example of how devotion to God and service to others can transform families, parishes, and entire communities.

As you carry forward this proud legacy, my Administration remains firmly committed to defending the right of every American to worship God freely and without fear. Last month, I proudly instituted the White House Religious Liberty Commission to safeguard and promote America's founding principle of religious freedom. Under my leadership, we are protecting God in the public square and emboldening every believer to live their faith freely, openly, and without threat of persecution.

Throughout our Nation's history, Americans have drawn strength from the grace of Almighty God and the enduring values nurtured in our churches. As you continue to inspire women to boldly live out their Catholic faith, may your efforts awaken hearts, renew our culture, and keep our country firmly rooted in the truth that we are—and must always be—one Nation under God.

May God bless you, and may He continue to bless the United States of America.
